NEWS ANNOUNCEMENT

Overwatch Announces Appointment of Jon Percy As VP Business Development and Strategy

Overwatch is proud to announce that longtime employee Jon Percy has been appointed vice president of business development and strategy. He brings 29 years of industry experience to his new position, including more than seven years with Overwatch Tactical Operations. He joined the company as a senior systems engineer before becoming the program manager for its Future Combat Systems situational understanding program.

About Overwatch

Overwatch, an operating unit of Textron Systems, is the leading provider of integrated intelligence software solutions and services as well as robust satellite communications systems for today's U.S. and international defense and intelligence communities. For the past 20 years, Overwatch's intelligence solutions have supported decision-makers, counter-terrorism analysts, war fighters and first responders by providing proven tools that simplify the integration, analysis and exploitation of intelligence in order to present a complete operational picture and accelerate the time-to-decision.
